Peace Negotiations Now Seem Deadlocked

CONDITIONS SERIOUS ON MANY RAILROADS REPORTS SHOW WITH REAL CRISIS NEARING

Chairman Hooper Continues Efforts To Bring End Of Controversy

JEWELL CHARGES WALL STREET IS RESPONSIBLE

Leader of Strikers Says Financial Group Interested In Roads

(By Associated Press.)

WASHINGTON, July 15.—

Hearings will be held soon by the senate interstate commerce committee to initiate a revision of the transportation act and to deal with problems developed by the present strike, Chairman Cummins stated today.

(By Associated Press.)

NEW YORK, July 15.—The prediction that E. F. Grable, president of the Brotherhood of Maintenance of Way Employees, would issue strike orders to his union at any hour, was made today by William Parker, president of the union's association of eastern chairmen.

(By International News Service.)

WASHINGTON, July 15.—

There is no immediate prospect of the 400,000 maintenance of way employees joining the strike, it developed this afternoon after a conference between President Harding and E. F. Grable, of the maintenance of way men.

(By International News Service.)

CHICAGO, July 15.—Negotiations for settlement of the strike of railway shopmen was virtually at a deadlock today as the strike entered its third week and no end of the walk-out appeared in sight.

Conditions of the roads, attributable to the strike, are becoming more serious, reports indicated, and predictions were made that the coming week might witness the crisis of the controversy.

Chairman Ben W. Hooper, of the United States Railway Labor Board, was continuing his efforts today to bring about an adjustment, but would hold out no hope of success.

The differences between the roads and employees were described by Hooper as "fundamental." The unions are insisting that the basis of settlement might include abolition of the contract system, modification of protested working rules, revision of the wage scale and establishment of a national adjustment board.

The railroad unions demanded that all men who went on strike be restored to full seniority rights. The railroads, it was announced, are willing to agree to abolition of the contract system and the establishment of regional adjustment boards. They refuse the restoration of seniority to strikers and contend that questions of wages and working rules must be taken up through the labor board.

B. M. Jewell, head of the railway employees department of the Federation of Labor, and leader of the striking shopmen, today charged that a group of twelve banks and financial institutions control the financial policies of the railroads and laid responsibility for continuation of the strike to "Wall Street's desire to crush the labor unions."

The financiers directing these institutions, the shop craft leaders charge, are the "forces in back of the difficulties of promptly settling this strike."

The beginning of the third week of the strike saw state troops on guard

MOTOR TRUCKS ARE BROUGHT INTO USE TO HANDLE MAI

(By Associated Press.)

WASHINGTON, July 15.—The inauguration of the use of motor trucks to transport the mails, due to the inability of the railroads, on account of the shopmen's strike, was announced today by Postmaster General Work, who said it had been determined to use motor transportation between Bedford and Switz City, Ind., where trains have been annulled.

Reports to the Postoffice Department said at Toledo, Ohio, all depot employees reported on strike and additional mail clerks were asked for.

Twenty Prisoners Now In County Jail

There are 20 prisoners now confined in the county jail, a very unusually large number for this season of the year. There are four charged with murder, 2 for distilling, two for forgery and four for burglary. The balance face charges of violating the prohibition law and petit larceny. Two have expressed a desire to plead guilty and take the fine. It is quite possible that these will be arranged before Judge W. T. Lowe Monday and be given a sentence.

Miners' Policy To Be Decided Upon

(By Associated Press.)

WASHINGTON, July 15.—The policy committee of the United Mine Workers, numbering 126 members, representing the local and district organizations throughout the country gathered here today to authorize a reply to President Harding's offer of arbitration to settle the coal strike, with every indication it will be a refusal to accept.

TWIN CITIES TO HAVE BASEBALL TEAM FOR REMAINDER OF YEAR, IF FANS ARE LIBERAL

Five Hundred Dollars Sought To Finance Squad This Season

GORDON McDUFF WILL GUIDE CLUB'S DESTINIES

Inquiries Are Sent To Former Members Of Albany-Decatur Team

Somebody is always taking the joy out of life, with apologies to Mr. Briggs, but that somebody ain't here.

Diamond dust has once more pervaded the eyes of fandom of Albany-Decatur, and the Twin Cities are once more going to open in big league style. This news trickled through this morning and, although there has been some talk heretofore of reviving the old spirit of 1921, only today did the authentic report come through that the team is in the making.

It seems that the loyal followers of the ash wielders have suddenly become violently infuriated over the prospects of Albany-Decatur going through a period minus representation in the national sport.

At first a mere byword, then a rumor and then, ye gods, such a sea rose and the topmost wave carried the words that former Manager Gordon McDuff, of the "Twins," had made the remark that if the fans would round up the sum of 1,568,785.09 rubles, otherwise known in civilized America as the meagre amount of 500 simoleons, that he would herd the old flock back to the local pastures and mold them into such a larruping aggregation of pellet smashers that the league-leading, rag-chasin Twins of the past season would pale at the thought.

Fandom took this seriously and from a reliable source it is stated that $300.00 of this amount has been gathered in and the Albany-Decatur Semi-Pro's are due to make their debut on or around Monday, July 24.

Several of the old members of last year's pennant winners have been taken into camp and several local fly chasers are eager for a tryout.

It is proposed that the nearby teams of Hartselle, Huntsville and Sheffield will be included in the schedule of the local club and the short jumps from the neighboring cities will not make the team very expensive.

On Monday a team of local business men will start on the trail for the remaining collection and it is believed that the money will be realized easily as the local bugs know what it means to go through an afternoon without some methods of amusement at hand.

Make it a winning aggregation, donate to the rising fund but back that team win or lose.

HIS POSITION CLEAR ON CONSOLIDATION

T. M. Jones, candidate for the legislature from Morgan County, today made public his position on consolidation, refuting rumors that he would introduce a bill in the legislature to consolidate Albany and Decatur.

In an advertisement in this issue of The Daily, Mr. Jones denies absolutely any truth whatever in the rumor and declared he had no intention whatever of suggesting any such legislation.

Yours truly,
E. G. CHERRY,
Chairman of Federated Shop Crafts.

$370,000 TOTAL OF TAXES IN MORGAN

From Tax Collector J. H. Hill, it is learned that the total taxes collected in the county amount to $370,000. Of this amount, more than $94,000 is available for county schools. $25,000 of this amount was realized through the levying of the three mill or special tax. Full settlement has been made by the collector and each branch of the revenue department has their allotment. It is estimated that with the lowering of tax rates, which have obtained in the new assessments, and the addition of other school districts which have recently voted the special tax, which will be available next year, the allotment for county schools will not be materially changed.

From Superintendent E. L. Hays it is learned that the schools of the county were never in better condition, and that more new school buildings have been erected during the last eighteen months over the county, than any similar time in the history of county educational matters.

JUDGE ALMON TO SPEAK IN MORGAN

Edward B. Almon, of Tusculum, candidate to succeed himself as Eighth District Congressman, will open his speaking campaign in Morgan County on July 22, he announced today in a formal advertisement to the voters.

Judge Almon will speak at 10 a. m. on July 22 at Valhermosa Springs. On the afternoon of the same date he will speak at 3 o'clock at Hartselle. Congressman Almon has been speaking in Madison County this week and it is understood he has been having large crowds.

County Candidates To Make Speeches

An itinerancy has been mapped out by the county chairman of the democratic executive committee, which will carry the county candidates in a body over the county to fill speaking dates, beginning at Lanes Box No. 1 July 24th, and winding up at Albany August 5th, at 7:30 p. m. It is quite probable that every candidate will avail themselves of this opportunity of making a final appeal to the electorate before the date of the August primary.

INCLUSION OF STEAM PLANT AT GORGAS IS OPPOSED BY KILBY IN WIRE TO COMMITTEE

Urgent Protest Sent To Washington By Alabama's Chief Executive

DECLARES GORGAS UNIT COMPANY NECESSITY

Says Great Confusion Would Follow Award Of Plant To Ford

(Montgomery Bureau Albany-Decatur Daily.)

MONTGOMERY, Ala., July 15.—

Urgent protest against the inclusion of the Gorgas steam plant and the government extension in any recommendation for the acceptance of Henry Ford's offer for Muscle Shoals was made to Senator George W. Norris, chairman of the Senate committee on agriculture, in a telegram sent by Governor Kilby late Friday. Governor Kilby told the committee the Gorgas plant and extension are not necessary for the operation of the nitrate plants and the Gorgas plant is necessary for the operation of industries which have been constructed with the view of obtaining power from the Gorgas development.

Governor Kilby placed himself on record several weeks ago as being opposed to the inclusion of the Gorgas plant, but being unalterably opposed to the sale of the Muscle Shoals property to the Alabama Power Company. He has declared himself in favor of Henry Ford's offer for Muscle Shoals after the Gorgas development has been divorced from the Muscle Shoals properties.

Governor Kilby's telegram to Senator Norris follows:

"I desire to register my earnest protest against the inclusion of the Gorgas steam plant of the Alabama Power Company and the extension built for the government as a part of this plant during the war in any recommendation made by your committee for the acceptance by Congress of the Ford offer for the Muscle Shoals properties.

"This plant is 88 miles from Muscle Shoals, is not a part of the Muscle Shoals property and is not necessary to the operation of the nitrate plants. A large part of the industry of Alabama has been built dependent upon the operation by the Alabama Power Company of the Gorgas plant in connection with its other plants and in support thereof.

"During low water periods on the Coosa River, where the main water power plant of the Alabama Power Company is located, the Gorgas steam plant supplies more than 50 per cent of the power used by cities, towns, industries and power and lighting customers on the system of the Alabama Power Company. The use of the Gorgas plant under the circumstances includes in addition to the original plant built by the Alabama Power Company the extension built for the government during the war, this entire plant being necessary for the support of the system of the Alabama Power Company during low water periods.

"A moral contract by the government should be as binding as a legal one. If this plant were taken away from the system of the Alabama Power Company, it is inevitable great inconvenience and confusion would result to the public served by the Alabama Power Company in Alabama."

ANIMATED SCENE WHEN CRAFTSMEN ARE GIVEN CHECKS

An animated, but strictly orderly, company of railroad strikers, due to receive their semi-monthly pay checks this morning, marched from the Masonic Theatre in Albany at about 9:30 o'clock this morning to the freight depot of the L. & N. Railroad in Decatur, over Second Avenue, over Lee Street, to the foot of Bank Street, where the freight depot is located.

"Bill" McKoin was the director of the march, and with the aid of every individual striker, absolute good order was observed, and not a single unhappy incident occurred during the whole time it took to pay off the nearly 1,800 men.

An interesting feature of the "pay" was the passage of every marcher under two large American flags, that were pinned together and held in such a way as to allow the men to pass under without inconvenience. Each man raised his hat as he passed under "Old Glory."

The line of men passed directly over Bank Street as they were being paid, but as vehicles of all kinds would arrive, they were given full right of way by the vast assembly of working men.

Celibacy Subject Of Vatican Petition

(By International News Service.)

ROME, July 15.—A petition has been addressed to the vatican, asking for a dispensation to relieve priests of their ecclesiastical obligation of celibacy, it was learned today. The indications, however, that the petition will have no result.

The Italian newspaper Epoca has declared that the petition was signed by a number of priests and some cardinals, but inquiry at the vatican elicited the information that the petition was anonymous, with no names to indicate the authorship. Officials at the vatican denied there is a general desire on the part of the priests to marry.

FAVORABLE REPORT ON HENRY FORD BID REFUSED BY A VOTE OF NINE TO SEVEN

Norris Plan for Federal Operation Loses By Vote of 9 To 5

FIGHT OVER CONTROL IS THROWN TO THE FLOOR

Senate, As Whole, Must Wrestle With Problem of Disposition

(By Associated Press.)

WASHINGTON, July 15.—Despite the adverse vote on Ford's offer for Muscle Shoals, it will be presented to the Senate for final action through minority reports, it was explained today.

(By International News Service.)

WASHINGTON, July 15.—By a vote of 9 to 7, the Senate agriculture committee voted today to make an unfavorable report to the Senate on the offer of Henry Ford to lease the government nitrate plant and water-power project at Muscle Shoals, Ala.

The majority of the committee also turned down all other offers for the development of Muscle Shoals, including the Norris plan for operation by a government corporation. The Norris plan was defeated by a vote of 9 to 5.

Two minority reports will be made to the Senate by the committee. One of these minority reports will recommend acceptance of the Ford offer, while the other will provide for adoption of the Norris plan of government operation.

The committee's decision prevented the making of any majority report on final disposition of the project. This action throws the whole problem back to the floor of the Senate for decision.

The vote of Senator Kendrick, Democrat, of Wyoming, really defeated the Ford proposition and he was the only Democrat to vote against the Detroit manufacturer. If he had held to party lines, the committee's vote would have been a tie. At the same time, however, the Ford's advocates were aided by Senator Ladd, who championed their cause, and Senator Capper.

The action of the committee means that two and possibly three minority reports will be made to the senate. Senator Ladd, Republican of North Dakota, will submit the minority report, recommending acceptance of Ford's offer.

Chairman Norris, Republican of Nebraska, will submit a second minority report owing to his chairmanship. This will recommend passage of the Norris bill, creating a federal corporation to permanently operate the project.

A third minority report may be submitted by Senator Keyes, Republican, of New Hampshire, Kendrick, Democrat of Wyoming, and Harold, Republican of Oklahoma, urging the senate to reject all the present proposals, including both the Ford and Norris plan.

They would urge the government to complete the project and then decide on its future.

BIGGEST STILL TAKEN.

MONTGOMERY, Ala., July 15.—Special.—The largest still ever taken by the state law enforcement department was destroyed in Lee County Friday, according to a telephone message to headquarters. The still had a capacity of 1,800 gallons and was equipped with two worms and two condensers. The boiler was more than nine feet high and five feet in diameter. No one was arrested.

WE FAVOR ACCEPTANCE OF HENRY FORD'S BID FOR MUSCLE SHOALS.

CONSTRUCTIVE METHODS.

There are methods and methods. There are methods wanting in construction, and methods where construction abounds. The constructive method is the only method which can hold in promise anything for the one putting them into practice. Constructive methods, are means employed to build and gather as one goes. Adding to the ideas in force; gathering information along the way; seeking to profit by experience; never getting to the point where one is a know all; taking advice from whatever source if found to be right and truth, these are the things embraced in constructive methods. Any other kind are not of a constructive nature, and will not prove very availing when the real test of their worth comes for a show down.

WHY THEY FEAR FARM BLOC.

In his attitude toward the Ford proposal for Muscle Shoals Senator Norris, unlike those representatives and senators who are to be renominated in the primaries during the next few weeks, and re-elected this fall, has not been listening with one ear to the subject under discussion and with the other to the things their folks back home are saying of them. The senator doesn't have to be re-elected this fall.

There is probably not a representative in congress, and certainly not a senator whose term expires March 4, next, who has not at least one person within his own party, to say nothing of certain opposition outside of his party, who covets his job, and the honors and emoluments that accompany it, especially the emoluments, and they know and appreciate the power of Ford before the people. Popularity is essential to an elective office, and to be popular the politician must keep close to the people.

Again it is should be remembered, and is no doubt kept well in mind by senators as well as representatives seeking re-election, that during the present congress a new kind of sectionalized popularity has appeared. There has been a revolt in the south and the middle west against what has been termed the industrial domination of New England and the middle Atlantic states. The opinion has gained current that those sections legislate for the manufacturers and exporters to the detriment of the agricultural interests. The result has been as is known, the formation of the farm bloc. While it is not at present taking the form of a new political party, being composed of a combination of Democrats with Republicans, and have succeeded in many instances, in unseating Republican incumbents who have not been true to the agricultural interests.

Where Democrats in the west are weak in numbers they are strong for the farm bloc movement; for they see in it a method of wearing away by attrition the present Republican majority, which has adopted the do-nothing policy, failing to carry out Republican pledges to the people.

The farm bloc threatens to play an important part in the next presidential election, composed as it is of the agricultural interests of the south and west. As stated the farm bloc is a revolt against what has been termed the industrial domination of New England and the middle Atlantic states, and its formation is regarded by political observers as marking the approaching collapse of what has been termed the industrial bloc, although it functioned under another name. The difference between the farm bloc and the industrial bloc that has so long wielded a great influence in congress in the interests of certain industries is that the former works in the open, not under cover.

It is gratifying to know that as the center of population shifts westward legislative control is slipping away from east. There was a time when the east dictated the nomination of both candidates for the presidency, and dominated the politics in this country; but in the campaign of 1916, a president was elected without receiving a single electoral vote from either of the eastern states. The balance of power has shifted to the west and south, if not really to Pacific coast, which has grown faster than any other section of the country.—Montgomery Journal.

A DEMOCRACY DEPENDS ON THINKING VOTERS; IGNORANCE AND KNOWLEDGE ALWAYS AT LOGGER-HEADS.

Secretary Charles E. Hughes, recently made an address to the National Education Association, the keynote of which according to reports of it is expressed in the following language—"democracy will go down to ruin unless it is led by men trained to think". The Secretary did not over look the fact that a nation is made up of many individuals and that many regardless of their training have silly streaks, but he contended that "education can and does reduce a man's follies to a minimum". Because training will reduce the follies of individuals, it can also be depended on to reduce a nation's follies—and when absolutely necessary is eliminated every thing is reasonably safe. There will never come a time owing to the size, location, and large population of this country when it need fear destruction from without; of course such a thing could happen but it is not humanly probable. To assume that because we are too strong to be successfully invaded, that also we are immune from all danger would be false, in the light of history. The powerful nations, or rather those that had unlimited physical power and had conquered other nations, are the ones that actually failed of their mission. An attack from without would solidify and strengthen this nation, but evil influences from within might eat its heart away. Mr. Hughes argues that trained thinkers will go far toward preventing any backward turning in our national progress.

He utterly condemns and discards the too common teaching of the demagogic speakers who say in effect that the masses are all right and infallible, just as he would doubtless say that the idea of the divine rights of kings is a false one.

Despite the fundamental honesty of the vast majorities, and their large fund of common sense, unless they think according to the rules of thought, they may reach unwise conclusions or note at all according to Mr. Hughes.

Writers who know the illiteracy statistics point out, that those regions where the largest number of untrained people live, send the largest number of dangerous men into offices of trust and responsibility. What will the nation do as regards illiteracy? We cannot put forth the excuse that we are not able to educate all the people, for our nation is the richest one in the world. The fact is we cannot afford not to carry out the largest possible program for training all the people, not only to read and cipher, but to think, and to think straight on all the problems of life. Any one who opposes education is betraying his town, county, state and nation into the hands of our most dangerous enemy—ignorance.

Conscience is no more a true guide for the activities of a life, than a morning sun is a guarantee of a cloudless day. Expediency regulates the consciences of men to a marked degree, and on this wise they assure self in many instances that they are actuated by high and exalted principle. The conscience is susceptible of becoming impervious to the attack of the good, and under this delusive spell acts are done that are not actuated by the basic and fundamental principle of right.

The song birds among the trees of the forest are never envious of those with a wider variety of melodious notes, but each pour forth their melody as if the whole works depended upon the faithful effort made by them. If it were not thus a discord would run entirely through the entire orchestra of the forest.

Melody is a combination of harmonious sounds; one discord can disturb and render unharmonious the greatest melody ever produced.

A TRAIN OF THOUGHTS FOR SABBATH AND OTHER DAYS

By J. E. Blair

Speaking broadly, man's chief DUTY, is the "conversion of force". A first command of the Bible is—"Subdue the earth". Our first father went about this task, right manfully. Despite all else that may be said against Adam he did not whine or complain. He began to subdue the animal kingdom while in the garden, and when its gates clicked against him and his wife, he set grimly to work to subdue the forces of nature. He converted the soil, the rain and the chemical forces into crops that would sustain life. Noah met man's first test against a universally destructive force, successfully.

Noah's ark out lasted Noah's flood. Skipping the triumphs of the ancients over the forces of nature—man has converted that was going to waste, in merely lifting a tea kettle lid—and now that mighty white breath we call steam drives our engines on land and sea and in the air. That great mental force called thought, was converted—reduced to a printed page by the men who made the printing press!

The air currents that once brought only storms and death now carry messages of business and of love. Men converted the force in the waters that fall at Niagara, into electricity and now that "mysterious something," drives machinery, warms dwellings, and lights up the heavens for hundreds of miles! Who does not know that a plan is on foot (Here is hoping no one dares trip it up!) to convert the horse power at Muscle Shoals; and this effort if Ford is allowed to make it, will aid greatly in raising great cities where only barren land now lays out, and Mr. Ford if allowed to do so, will put "growing powers" into the sorely tried lands of the south and west.

And men are expecting to convert to human use the mighty power in the waves of the sea. They are planning to make "usable" the heat force in the rays of the sun, and they will manage "old Sol" as easily as our grand mothers drove the family horse.

Audacious man is reaching out to chain the destructive lightnings, that used to terrify us in the days of our youth, and make them gentle, soft, illuminating, and useful. And man has frustrated the storms until we ride upon them, and perhaps some day a greater adventurer than Columbus will discover our brothers and sisters on the far away planets (Let us hope we will not kill them as we did the poor Indian). Finally, the devout prayers for rain will be answered and farmers will have rain at will.

The achievements of man, in converting the forces of nature, you say are wonderful, grand etc. Perhaps so, but what shall it profit if we forget that man's "chief end" is to glorify God and enjoy Him forever? What is mere duty doing any way, compared to accepting the privilege of becoming "sons of God"? All we may do, as regards "converting force," is by comparison equal to the feeding of the swine by the Prodigal son, Father's house! But to go home is not enough, unless like the Prodigal son, we return to our Evangelists who stress too much mere salvation are short sighted and unacceptable to thinking Christians, unless they go on and teach those who have followed the "saw dust trail," how to glorify God and enjoy Him forever, they do not preach the whole gospel.

Cavalry Receives Car of Equipment

HARTSELLE, Ala., July 15—Troop C, 109th Alabama Cavalry received Friday a carload of equipment for their mounts. Another car containing clothing, is due to arrive today. The cavalry lost their entire equipment by fire several months since, the armory burning. The armory is now being rebuilt on a larger scale than formerly, and will be ready for occupancy before the fall months come. At present the troop is occupying a vacant store building near the railroad, east. Recruiting is going actively on, and it is hoped to have the troop to full strength by encampment time.

Advice to Girls

By Annie Laurie

DEAR ANNIE LAURIE:
I have been going with a very handsome young man, and he is as good as he is handsome. He has always treated me nicely in every way. He talks to me very confidentially many times. The other night he talked to me about the way I dressed and the way I abused my health. Right at the time it made me angry, although he told me in a very gentlemanly way. He said he meant nothing only for my own good, now and hereafter. I told Mother about it, and Mother thought it fine of him. That is my one failing, I guess. Anyway, everybody is warning me. I want to know if it is proper for him to do so. If it is, I will try and hold my temper next time. He pardoned me, although it made him feel badly. SINCERITY.

DEAR ANNIE LAURIE:
I am a girl still in my "teens," and I want some advice. I have been going with a young man about two years my senior. He is tall and very popular among many girls. Last winter he attended the same school I did, but this year he is attending another school. He was very devoted to me last winter and summer, but this winter it seems to me he has not been as devoted as he should be, although he says he still loves me. What can I do to find out whether he loves me or not? What can I do to win his love back? There is another young man who loves me dearly. I went with him for one year. He told me he loved me, and a short time ago when I was with him he said he still loves me, and never can forget me. I can't return his love as I should like to. Should I go with both or should I go with the first, whom I love very much? BROWN EYES.

DEAR ANNIE LAURIE:
I am 15 years old, and in love with a man quite some years older than myself. He tells me he loves me more than any one else in the world. We go out, maybe once or twice a week, and he takes me any place I want to go. He is a business man, and is busy all the time. He never seems to get much time to go anywhere. When we go out we have little arguments, because he doesn't go out more. I love this man with all my heart and soul, therefore, I couldn't do anything to displease him. If he sees me with any one else he will never call to see me again. This man is married. We have known each other for three years, and I can't give him up now. Please give me some advice, as this would be very shocking if my mother ever found it out. DORCAS.

DEAR ANNIE LAURIE:
I am a girl 18 years of age. A young man is in love with me, but I do not like him. This young man is 19 years of age. I like the friendship of others better. I told him I would never marry him, and probably I would never marry at all. He told me that I would marry him or he would make trouble for the man who married me. Please advise me what to do. X. Y. Z.

ONE MAN SHOT

(By Associated Press.)
SCRANTON, Pa., July 15.—One man was shot and slightly injured in connection with the shopmen's strike at Carbondale, near here, early today. He is Joseph Walker, a citizen, on his way home. It is alleged he was fired upon by new workmen quartered in the foundry of the Delaware-Hudson railroad.

OPPOSES TROOPS.

(By International News Service.)
WASHINGTON, July 15.—Uses of troops in the rail strike would be a colossal blunder, it was said today by J. J. Noonan, member of the executive council of the railway employees department of the Federation of Labor, who came here from Chicago for a conference with federation officials. "Use of federal troops would be an irritant, not a salve," said Noonan. He denied that railway labor is seeking to "kill" the railway labor board. "We do not object to the board exercising its legal functions," he declared, "but the law gives it no power to enforce its decisions and power resents its arrogating to itself power it does not possess."

Cotton Bolls Are Nearly Grown

A forceful evidence of just how fast the present cotton crop is maturing is gathered in the fact that practically grown bolls of cotton are being exhibited here today, coming from the territory near here. Where the bolls came from the plant is said to be full of squares, blooms and plenty of young bolls, and no boll weevil sign is evident. It is estimated that is already in evidence enough bolls well toward maturity to make near a bale to the acre. It is astonishing to those who are actually engaged in cotton culture how very fast the cotton puts on fruit and matures in July. July is the month that is counted on for a crop, and conditions now point to splendid results in Morgan County for a harvest, barring no untoward events.

EXAMS TO BE GIVEN.

The Civil Service Commission invites special attention to the fact that in examinations held recently in Albany, Ala., and other cities throughout the United States for computer, Coast and Geodetic Survey; law clerk and typist, Bureau of Naturalization, Department of Labor; laboratorian (chemical, physical, engineering), Departmental and Field Services; assistant observer in meteorology, Weather Bureau; radio inspector, Bureau of Navigation, Department of Commerce, applicants were not secured in the number desired, and that these examinations will be held again. The law clerk and typist, and the radio inspector examinations will be held on July 19; the others on Aug. 9.

Persons interested in these or other examinations should apply to the secretary of the United States Civil Service Board at the local postoffice for detailed information and application blanks. G. G. Gentry, Secretary Local Civil Service Board.

LONDON, July 15.—A serious shortage of food threatens the civilian population in areas occupied by the Irish republican military forces, according to a statement from Free State sources.

To All Concerned: Greetings!

"Chairman Hooper has announced that he has formulated new plans for the settlement of the strike, but he did not indicate what his course of procedure would be. He was outspoken in his condemnation of the rail executives for their refusal to join with the employees."—International News Service in Albany-Decatur Daily July 13, '22.

"More than 90 railroads have violated the transportation act."—From Official Strike Bulletin No. 1, Page 2.

Three Examples of These Violations

Atlanta, Birmingham & Atlantic (A. B. & A.) reduced wages by one-half the increases since December, 1917, effective March 1, 1921, by securing authority of U. S. Judge to set aside order of Board. When men struck Board issued statement to effect that both parties had violated decision but took no further action.

The Chicago, Great Western R. R. in April, 1920, discharged certain gangs of laborers and contracted for the work at a lower rate than that set by the Board. In the latter half of 1921 it closed its South Park and its Oelwein shops and contracted out the shops and work to the A. H. Hecker Co. This was done to evade Board's ruling on piece-work. The freight handling at Oelwein Transfer Platform was also contracted out, with 10-hour day and lower wages resulting. All maintenance of way work was contracted out in April, 1922, with resulting longer hours and lower wage rates.

The Michigan Central R. R. contracted out its car repair work at Detroit to the Illinois Car and Manufacturing Co., February 25, 1922. The purpose was to introduce piece-work without following the ruling of the Board on the subject.—Strike Bulletin No. 1, pages 3 and 5.

The men will remain away from their jobs at the shops and round-houses until the just and reasonable demands made upon the Association of Railway Executives, embodied in the letter of the Executive Council to Chairman Thomas DeWitt Cuyler, Friday, June 30, are complied with.—Strike Bulletin No. 1, Page 1.

To the Chief Executives of the Sixteen Standard Recognized Railroad Labor Organizations.
Dear Sirs and Brothers:

I am quoting below a telegram sent from this office on June 30, to the General Chairman on all Railroads in the United States and Canada, and to the Secretary-Treasurers of all Divisions of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers in the United States and such Divisions of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers in Canada that are located on Railroads like the Grand Trunk, Pere Marquette, and Michigan Central Railroads.

"Am officially advised a legal strike of all shop craft employees below the rank of General Foreman will become effective on all Railroads in the United States Saturday morning July first at ten o'clock. Members of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers will continue to perform their usual duties the same as before the strike no more no less. . . . Caution all members to be careful of what they say and to commit no illegal acts."

Yours fraternally,

Diary of a Fashion Model

By GRACE THORNCLEIFFE

She Describes a Charming Navy Blue Frock for Street Wear.

I was a dark, cloudy day, and I had fussed around madly in the morning, trying to find something appropriate to wear.

"Jane will have on something trim and clothes and wonder how they can be made over to look brand new and better still."

"Well, it isn't had to have someone who inspires you to that," the girls agreed.

I indulged in a shine, after having carefully adjusted my veil and pulled on my new gloves. Then I sallied forth to meet Jane.

I saw a slim figure before me in the hotel lobby, and though her back was turned at first, I knew it was Jane.

"That's a chic little frock," I remarked as soon as we had exchanged greetings. "It is a French thing, I'll bet."

"Well, it does happen to be," said Jane, modestly. "But first of all, please admire my hat. I just bought it and was terribly afraid I was going to be late for it took much trying-on to find the right one."

"I can see with half an eye it is the right one," I rejoined, approvingly, noting the thin hair-braid hat with a colorful flower at one side.

"What an interesting flower!" I said. "I like the bluish-crimson tone and the heavy stem coiled around as a background."

"It's of rubber," Jane said. "It's a new note to me, but the milliner said she had been using them for a season or two."

"Yes, Madame used some on her hats," I rejoined. "They all seemed to come in the loveliest possible colors."

"I'm glad you like my dress," said Jane. "I like it tremendously and it was just luck, my stumbling across it at one of the little shops I go to sometimes."

"What is the material?" I asked. "It seems to be very light in weight, and still it looks like woolen."

"It's an imported novelty cloth," answered Jane. "A mixture of wool and silk, I think. While it looks rather tailored, you've no idea how cool and comfortable it is."

"It is decidedly French," I observed with my head on one side.

"Don't you think the Perle-looking silk braid is rather fascinating?" Jane asked. "I loved the crimson tones of it so, I think that was really why I fell for the dress."

"It is a thoroughly smart costume," I said. "I envy you, having something so attractive and suitable for these cool days when anything too summer-like looks a bit washed out."

We wandered in to a luncheon table and planned our afternoon as we ordered. We were both interested in shoes and decided to look at some that afternoon.

"I want some with colonial buckles and stand-up tongues," I observed.

"And you must help me to select a pair to wear with my beige suit," said Jane.

"I think beige suede and black patent leather are smart together, don't you?"

"Goodness, what an uncomfortable person to have around!" exclaimed one of the girls.

"It doesn't affect me that way," I commented. "Usually, after a session with Jane, I go home, pull out my best smart and will look as fresh as a daisy, I know," I confided to the girls. "I'm going to meet her for lunch, and she's the kind of person who always looks so well dressed and beautifully groomed that she makes one feel almost shabby."

STAR CAST CHOSEN FOR "FOOL'S PARADISE."

PRINCESS MONDAY

That "variety is the spice of life" seems to be the motto of Cecil B. De Mille in his selection of casts for his photoplays. "Fool's Paradise," his latest Paramount picture which will be shown at the Princess Theatre next Monday, introduces a cast almost entirely new to De Mille audiences although as individuals the players are well known.

Dorothy Dalton, Mildred Harris, Conrad Nagel and John Davidson appear under the banner of Cecil B. De Mille for the first time in this production. Two favorites of past De Mille productions—Theodore Kosloff and Julia Faye—complete the cast of principals.

The story of "Fool's Paradise" is the joint product of Beulah Marie Dix and Sada Cowan. The theme was suggested by Leonard Merrick's short story "The Laurels and the Lady," but this has been elaborated by the collaborators into a highly dramatic and colorful story that is distinctly new and vital.

In selecting the cast for "Fool's Paradise," Mr. De Mille chose his players from the ranks of stardom. Ability, beauty and type influenced him in his selection. The effect is seen in a performance seldom equaled on the screen.

To the Women Voters of Morgan County, Ala.:

Finding that it will be impossible for me to see in person all of the ladies who are on the voting list of the county, I am taking the liberty to write this letter calling your attention to my candidacy for the office of Sheriff of Morgan County at the Primary Election to be held on Tuesday, Aug. 8, of this year.

I am a native of Morgan County and have lived here all my life, I have always been a Democrat and supported its nominees.

I have served nearly four years as office deputy in the Sheriff's office, and am familiar with the duties of the office.

I am asking to be elected on a platform of strict law enforcement and on a business administration of the office.

I pledge myself to see that all legal process placed in my hands is speedily executed, and will play no favorites. "All men look alike to me."

I stand for "clean towns," a clean county, and a safe place to raise our children, and to this end the homes of our people should be protected from depredation and all questionable places of resort should be suppressed.

I have a family of my own to be cared for, and I stand for good morals at home and abroad, under all conditions, and speedy and vigorous punishment for violators of our law.

I will appreciate your support and pledge you a faithful and honest discharge of the duties of the office if elected.

Very respectfully,
F. M. HAMILTON.

New York Letter

by Lucy Jeanne Price

New York, July 15.—Painting trees may give a man a keener appreciation of them than the ordinary mortal feels. At any rate, it remained for a New York artist to solve the problem of keeping them standing even when they stood square in the middle of the lot he had purchased for the building of a home. Alexander T. Van Laer, a noted landscape artist living in this city, bought the site of a summer home up in lovely Litchfield, Conn. A magnificent elm tree grew in the lot and the artist had difficulty deciding between his admiration for its beauty and the practical matter of removing it in order to put his house on the place he had bought for that purpose. He solved the problem by building all around it and not molesting one of its branches.

New York, deprived of its old-fashioned Fourth of July celebration by the anti-fireworks ordinance, had evidently expected to celebrate in another way—also prohibited by law. According to prohibition officers, $6,000,000 worth of liquor was held by the "rum fleet" just outside the three-mile limit for several days just before the Fourth, waiting to come in port and land their celebratory cargo. Fifteen vessels composed this fleet, they say, the greatest number that the Jersey coast has known since rum-running became one of the excitements of coast life. The prohibition fleet was augmented proportionately, however, and to date there has been uninterrupted watchful waiting by both factions.

"The Day" will open the season for the co-operative theater company, which has taken the Belmont Theatre for next year. It is being tried out now in Atlantic City and will come to New York in September. Miss Bertha Mann has the leading role.

Manhattan crowds are undoubtedly in good-natured times of duress and inconvenience as one could find anywhere in the world. Maybe the subways have so accustomed them to being jammed and prodded that they just don't mind. The Fourth of July and the railroad strike hit the city simultaneously, with the result that Saturday before the holiday 30,000 people were crammed for over an hour into the Grand Central Station, unable to learn when a train would move or where it would move when it did. Forty policemen were called as the crowd assumed its hug proportions, but they were not needed. There was no disorder, no quarreling, not even mutters of indignation. It was the cheeriest set of afflicted, uncomfortable people you ever came across.

It is interesting how Broadway success changes one's point of view. The casts of one of the colored shows which has been so much in evidence lately, and has won considerable popularity, were lined up on the stage the other night for flashlights. The press agent suggested that the pictures be taken with the troupe eating large watermelons. Instead there was a rebellion, the performers protesting that they "weren't pickaninies."

"We New Yorkers are perplexed. Here the President of the United States has gone and signed a bill after our own Mayor had taken the trouble of writing him and telling him that it was unconstitutional. Various people have been objecting and on account of the right of the Supreme Court to overrule legislative action in such a way. But surely Mayor ought to have such power whether he's a lawyer or not. It was the port authority bill that was in question, and after Mayor Hylan wrote pointing out its unconstitutionality, the President wrote just as nice a letter as you could imagine mentioning that he was always concerned with the interests of New York—and then signed the bill!"

Hard times and the h. c. l. are not discouraging the foreign young men among us, whatever they may do to the native born. Two hundred and thirty-one "picture brides" landed in New York the other day, the largest number in many months. These are young girls from Europe who have become acquainted and betrothed to men of their nation in this country.

Put End to That Affair.
I was seventeen years of age and had just completed a high school when I met a traveling man, who seemed very nice. After having gone with him three months I had fallen in love with him. He left about a week afterward to go to his headquarters. I received several letters from him and then a sudden stop, when I received one of my letters back, which had written on the back: "Come home to spend a week with his wife and children," and signed by his boss.

AILING WOMEN OF MIDDLE AGE

Mrs. Linton Tells How Helpful Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is at This Period

Denver, Colorado.—"I have taken Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for seven years and I cannot tell you the good it has done me. It is good for young and old and I always keep a bottle of it in the house, for I am at that time of life when it calls for Lydia E. Pinkham's help. My husband saw your ad. in the papers and said 'You have taken everything you can think of, now I want you to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.' So I let him get it and I soon felt better and he told me I want you to take about six bottles." So I did and I keep house and do all my own work and work out by the day and feel fine now. I tell every one about the Vegetable Compound, for so many of my friends thought I would not get well." —Mrs. R. J. LINTON, 1850 West 33d Avenue, Denver, Colorado.

After reading letters like the above, and we are constantly publishing them, why should any woman hesitate to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound if she is in need of help? It brings relief where other medicines fail. Advertisement.

Hartselle News

The revival which has been in progress almost a week continues to increase in interest and numbers. Rev. Norman Guice, the evangelist who is conducting the services, has stamped himself indelibly upon all who have heard him, and his discourses bear the stamp of consecration and earnestness. He handles his subjects in an extremely practical way, riveting home the truths sought to be impressed in a most convincing manner. No effort has been made by the evangelist to further his meeting by excitement, but on the contrary the great truths from the Bible have been applied by him to the everyday life of those whom he is seeking to benefit, in a calm and impassioned appeal, which has caused all to think and think seriously. The meeting is scheduled to run another week or longer if conditions warrant.

With two heavy rains during the last 36 hours in this section, conditions are somewhat adverse for the continuation of farm work, which was progressing well. The rains are not general, but are confined to a section from west to east.

A market is being found for the surplus potatoes and beans raised in this locality, and as a result quantities of them are being brought here for shipment. Messrs. Poole and Sherrill are making arrangements to send a large consignment of both vegetables forward next Tuesday. Beans are bringing the producers $1 per bushel and potatoes are finding a ready sale at $1.20 per bushel. The potato and bean crop are both very fine in this section, and the market affords a means of bringing in considerable revenue.

Dr. W. M. Booth was host to the official board of the First Methodist Church Thursday afternoon at a chicken barbecue. The ministers were invited also, as were the families of the membership of the official board. The "cue" was given at the Confederate wigwam near Shoal Creek, and was greatly enjoyed by all present. The meat was prepared under the personal supervision of Dr. Booth, who is never happier than when participating in an occasion of this character.

W. J. Wade and family, of Nashville, Tenn., after several days spent with relatives here, have returned home.

O. H. Orr and wife, of Birmingham, spent several days here recently with his brother, Sim Orr, and family.

Joe Hargrove, for many years a resident of Hartselle, being engaged in business here under the firm of Hargrove, Stewart & Co., is visiting his many friends here and elsewhere in the county this week. Mr. Hargrove for the past several years has been a clerk in the criminal court division at Birmingham. He has many friends here who are always mighty glad to see Joe Hargrove.

A junior chorus was organized at the Methodist Church today. There was no day service at the church today, but tonight there will be a service at which the junior membership of the church will have precedence.

The second game of the series which is being played at Sheffield with the Bridgeport, Ala., team, went to Bridgeport by a margin of one score. Bridgeport had the game sewed up completely up to the seventh inning, and five scores were to their credit. In the seventh Hartselle instituted a regular batting fest and pushed across six runs. Bridgeport rallied from the shock and made two more runs in the ninth. The teams play again today. Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday Bridgeport comes to Hartselle for three games. Score: R. H. E. Hartselle 0 0 0 0 0 6 0 0 6 11 4 Bridgeport 0 2 2 0 0 1 0 0 2 7 8 4 Batteries: Riddle and Walker; Hart and Shriff.

POLLY AND HER PALS

REHEARING ASKED FOR FRED HALL

(Montgomery Bureau Albany-Decatur Daily)
MONTGOMERY, Ala., July 15.—Application for rehearing in the case in which the supreme court affirmed the decision of the Franklin circuit court in imposing a life sentence of Fred Hall for the murder of Martha Henderson at Russellville, has been filed with the supreme court. The supreme court affirmed the sentence last month.

The basis for the appeal for another hearing is the ruling of the trial court which permitted the state to offer in evidence a large number of letters written by Hall to the woman during the year or more preceding the day when he killed her as she was entering his store on the main street of Russellville. The defense contends that the letters had absolutely no bearing on the guilt or innocence of Hall but were highly prejudicial to the defendant and probably resulted in the verdict of guilty. In a brief in support of the application for rehearing counsel for Hall urged the supreme court to hold that the use of the letters was illegal.

It is probable a ruling on applications for rehearings will be handed down by the supreme court during recess. The regular term will not begin until October, but members of the court are now preparing opinions in cases submitted prior to the end of the last term, June 30.

STATEMENT ISSUED BY CHAIRMAN HOOPER OF THE RAILROAD LABOR BOARD FOR RELEASE JULY 8th:

"The Transportation Act, under which the Railroad Labor Board functions, makes the enforcement of the Board's decisions largely dependent on public sentiment and imposes upon the Board the duty of publishing information relative to the 'respective privileges, rights and duties of carriers and employees.'"

"In order that the general public, the railway managements and the shop craft employees may understand the attitude of the Board toward the strike and may have a correct conception of the Board's powers and duties in the premises, the following statement is made public.

"The law confers upon the Board no powers of arbitration, mediation and conciliation, by virtue of which it can intervene between the carriers and the striking employees and, by a give and take process, effect a compromise of any differences that may exist.

"As a matter of fact, the Board hears, considers and decides disputes much in the same manner that a court does, and endeavors to reach and render judgments based upon the law and the evidence. A carrier and its employees, in conference, may compromise their differences, but, having failed to agree, the Labor Board can only adjudicate, but not compromise.

"Having once decided a controversy, the Board's jurisdiction is at an end, unless, upon a proper petition, the case is re-opened and re-heard.

"There seems to be a misapprehension in some quarters to the effect that the Board may settle the strike by initiating some voluntary modification of its decisions complained of. Everybody concerned should understand that it would be grossly improper for the Board to pursue such a course and that it has no intention of so doing.

"The paramount purpose of the labor article of the Transportation Act was to prevent interruptions of traffic arising from labor disturbances. The underlying principle is that it is better for the immediate parties and for the people at large that controversies between the carriers and their employees should be settled in the court of reason rather than the court of force. It is believed that an impartial tribunal, composed of representatives of the three corners of this industrial triangle, will attain justice far more often than will threats, intimidation, mobs, riots, bombs, torches, murder and all the forces of violence incident to a strike.

"The shop crafts have been fairly heard before the Labor Board. They have appealed from the sober conservative judgment of this Board to the strike, with all its inevitable, un-American subversion of law and order.

"For the Labor Board to yield to measures of this kind would be an outrage upon public decency and would hasten the enthronement of anarchy in this country.

"Let it be understood, however, that the Railroad Labor Board is always open to any class of railway employees who approach it in conformity to the law for the presentation of any grievance. The Board welcomed the announcement policy of the Maintenance of Way employees to proceed within the limits of the law. Their course points the only feasible way for the Shop Crafts. Their conduct will meet with the approval of the public and with the responsive gratitude of railway managements.

"Upon one question, the striking employees should not be deceived. Their leader has said that the strikers are no longer employees of the railways, and they have thus automatically abandoned all the rights they possess under their agreements and under the decisions of this Board, including their seniority. This is not the Board's action. It is their own action.

"Many carriers are giving their former employees the opportunity to re-enter the service within a limited time. It must be understood now that men who remained in the service and those who are now entering it will have rights of seniority that this Board could not ignore. No better advice could be given to the men who are out than that they return to the service immediately. They have misjudged the situation that confronted them, but it is not too late to escape many of the evil results.

"It is to be hoped that the leadership of these organizations will perceive the hopelessness of any effort to intimidate the American public and will find a way to lead the men back into the adoption of peaceful methods, before some regrettable catastrophe has occurred that will detract from the unquestioned strength and usefulness of the organizations involved, if it does not destroy them outright.

"This is an individual utterance, but it expresses, in substance, the sentiments of a large majority of the members of the Railroad Labor Board."

Issued for the information of all concerned.

G. E. EVANS, Vice-President.

YOUR HEALTH

Why No One Is So Poor He Cannot Have a Doctor

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.
Commissioner of Health, New York City

If you owned a full-jeweled and time-striking watch you wouldn't tamper with its machinery or give it over to a blacksmith if it failed to run. You might shake the watch and in gentle manner try to coax it into activity. But if these harmless efforts failed you would take your watch to a watch-maker.

In the choice of a watch repairer you would take advice or you would go to a man of established reputation.

Why treat your body with any less consideration? You should know all you can about your body. The more you know about the simple methods of treatment the better. But when you are in doubt, "play safe"—see your doctor.

It should be your rule of life to learn how to keep your body free from disease. When you live right you won't get sick. Sickness is the result of your mistakes, or is due to the neglect of somebody else to protect you from disease.

One of the first questions the doctor asks you is: "How do you think you got this way?" Almost always you can give a pretty definite answer.

You have over-eaten, or have eaten the wrong food. You have lost sleep from worry or from apparent weakness. You have been too tired to exercise and to care for your body needs. Perhaps you have exposed yourself to the germs of infection.

Knowing how to live, it is your own fault if you neglect the rules of the game. When you are penalized you have no one to complain.

But if you are sick, no matter what may be the cause, you require as good care as you would give your watch. Go to your doctor if you have one. If you have no doctor, find out where there is one you can make your friend.

You may say: "I am too poor to pay a doctor."

If you live in a city there is no excuse for lack of treatment on account of poverty. There are any number of clinics where treatment can be obtained for a dime.

You probably know that almost every state and county has some sort of an official or an official body to improve all the public clinics and hospitals. They are under governmental control, and therefore may be considered reliable places to go for treatment. In one of these you ought to get as good treatment as you would in the private office of the best doctor in town.

Mind you, you should not make use of a free clinic if you can afford to pay a modest fee, because you are taking the time and materials which belong to some person who really is poor. Furthermore, if the doctors who man these clinics had no private patients to help pay their expenses, they could not afford to give their time to the clinics without reward, as is the case at present. You know, do you not, that clinic doctors are not paid for their services? This is the doctor's contribution to society.

If you really need medical care, no matter how poor you may be, the conscientious physician will be glad to pre-

Answers to Health Questions

W. D. Q.—After eating I suffer from soreness in my stomach, and also have a weak sensation. Will you please tell me what I shall do to overcome this condition?

A.—Without a personal examination it is impossible to advise you definitely about your condition. I would advise you to consult your physician and have a thorough examination made to determine the cause of your trouble, and follow the treatment prescribed.

W. M. Q.—I am a young man, 23 years of age, and at least twice a day my heart seems to jump. Will you please tell me what I shall do for this condition?

A.—Excessive smoking or nervousness may bring about this condition. You should live regularly, and avoid excitement of any sort. It would be advisable for you to consult a physician for an examination, and follow the treatment prescribed.

A. V. K. Q.—Will you please tell me how I can overcome blushing and nervous perspiration?

A.—Blushing is a nervous phenomenon, brought on by self-consciousness, and is overcome as one gets older and more self-confident. Nervous perspiration is due to the nerves causing the sweat glands to over-secrete. You ought to take regular outdoor exercise and carefully watch your diet to overcome your nervousness by building up your general health.
